New York Southern Society.

Members of the New York Southern Society and their guests, to the number of nearly seven hundred, gathered Saturday night at the seventeenth annual dinner of the society in the banquet hall of the Waldorf-Astoria. The boxes were filled with a brilliant assemblage of the wives and daughters of members of the society and their friends. President Augastus J. Van Wyck presided.

dent Augastus J. Van Wyck presided.

Chairman Van Wyck spoke in part as follows:

"What the South needs, and must have, is peace at home and jointly with the rest of the nation, international peace. There is but one unsettled problem peculiar to that section, commonly called the negro question. The South understands it, and if left alone it will be settled rightly and justly in a Christian spirit. The natural friendship between whites and blacks of long standing (with no idea of social equalits) is well known to those at all familiar with the subject. The best friends of the black race is the white race of the South. The future welfare and development of the former rests upon the absence of a conflict between the two, and he who destroys or lessons the amity, so existing between the two is not a friend of the black man, but an enemy, intelligently or unintelligently, to civilization. Let no American citizen who loves his country be a party to stimulating a war of the races, so much on the subject of peace at home in the girl, who has won an unusual success on the stage, will have a prominent role in 'Mary of Magdala," the play that Mrs. Fiske is to present at the Pike Theatre, Cincinnati, for two weeks, beginning March 3rd. Miss Hamilton comes from a distinguished Kentucky family, and is well known in Paris, Mt. Sterling and other cities. She is a niece of Mrs. Gen. Williams, of Mt. Sterling, and a the famous Baron Wilkes and other horses. She has often been a visitor at the home of Mr. Sidney G. Clay, in this city. George and Carroll Hamilton, among the largest tobacco growers in the South, are also her cousins. Mrs. Col. Stoner is the regent of the Mr. Sterling chapter of the "Daughters of the American Revolution," and Mrs. Gen. Williams is regent of the chapter of the "Daughters of the Confederacy," at Mt. Sterling. Miss Hamilton's godfather was Major Volney Lindsay, of Paris. Gen. Williams, Miss Hamilton's uncle by marriage, was United States Senator during the Hayes administration, and ran for Governor of Kentucky against Blackburn, who defeated him by a small margin. Miss Hamilton's career on the stage has been brief, but remarkably successful. She has played with several prominent American stars and has also won success in Australia. Her good work attracted the attention of Mrs. Fiske, who engaged her for the role of "Miriam," in her magnificent production of "Mary of Magdala." By her sympathetic and artistic portrayal of this role, Miss Hamilton has who high praise from the most distinguished dramatic writers in New York and Chicago. Her performance is considered one of the most artistic factors in the brilliant interpretation that the play receives at the hands of Mrs. Fiske and her company.

-With clever comedians, pretty girls, handsome costume and a play that is described as one continuous laugh, amusement seekers will be well provided for at the Grand Opera House, next Friday, when there will be presented the Comedy-drama, "Weary Willie Walker," a piece that has met with hearty favor at the hands of theatre-goers elsewhere. It abounds in ludicrous situations and fairly bristles with humor and action and the fun is clean and wholesome. Mr. Lloyd Ingrham, a comedian of wide popularity and peculiarly unique methods, essays the part of "Weary Willie." He has gotten away from the usual line of tramp portrayals and introduces a characte that, while excruciatingly funny, is devoid of anything coarse or rough. He is assisted by a company of unusual ability and it is claimed that the girls are blessed with more than the usual share of good looks. Special prices, 10, 20, 30 and 50c.

The Ladrones Are Again Active Near Manila.

Gen. Davis Ordered Another Battalion of Scouts to the Scene-It Is Expected That Additional Troops Will Be Sent.

Manila, Feb. 23.-A force of Ladrones, under Gen. San Miguel, reappeared in Rizal province Saturday. They avoided an engagement with the three small detachments of constabulary. The enemy surrounded the towns of Gainta and Taytay, 11 miles east of the battle hymn of the republic. Manila, Saturday and captured 30 scouts and ten men of the constabu-

Sunday Inspector McIlwaine, at the head of ten constabulary, was surprised and captured near Montalban, 16 miles northeast of Manila. The Ladrones promised to release them if the constabulary would surrender their arms. While they were conferring on this point, McIlwaine made a dash for liberty and he and all the constabulary effected their escape.

When the news of the reappearance of Gen. San Miguel's force reached Manila, reinforcements of scouts and constabulary were hurried into the Ri zal province. Gen. Allen and Col. Scott went to Antipolo and assumed command of the forces there. They met with small detachments of the enemy and a few skirmishes took place. They were, however, unable to locate the main body of Ladrones. Gen. Allen and Col. Scott are continuing the pursuit and hope to overtake the released prisoners.

It is said that Gen. San Mignel's force consists of 300 men, armed and uniformed. The zone of Ladrone activity extends from Caloocan, four miles north of Manila, eastward to the mountains of Rizal and skirting the northern limits of Manila. The Manila police co-operated in Saturday's effort to corner the enemy. Secretary Winthrop, in the absence of Gov. Taft, requested Gen. Davis to furnish additional scouts, and Gen. Davis has ordered another battalion of scouts to report to Gen. Allen. It is expected that additional troops will be ordered

Gen. San Miguel's force is small, and the government is determined to speedily suppress it. San Miguel claims the insurgent leadership and fights under the Katipunan flag.

According to news from Albay, Luzon, a force of Ladrones attacked a small detachment of constabulary Friday. The constabulary retreated, but killed 11 of the enemy. Two of the constabulary were killed.

SUBMARINE TORPEDO BOAT.

Will Be Given a Trial.

New York, Feb. 23.—The submarine torpedo boat Protector, a new type of vessel, which will shortly be put through a series of trials for the purpose of demonstrating her capabilities to officers of the United States navy, is being overhauled at City Island and put in first-class condition for the coming tests. 'The Protector was built in Bridgeport, Ca., by her inventor and owner, Capt. Simon Lake. The vessel is designed for harbor defense. She is 60 feet long, of 11 feet beam, draws 12 feet of water and weighs about 200 tons. She is built of steel and equipped with two wheels to enable her to travel along the bottom of the sea. Her motive power is electricity when submerged and gasoline when cruising awash. There were two torpedo tubes, one fore and one aft, and an opening in her bow will admit or a diver leaving the boat to cut cables or mine connection. Her builder believes she can destroy submarine defenses in any harbor. During recent trials she carried a crew of eight men and nine passengers. A speed of 12 knots was easily made on her surface run.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

Was Observed in New York By Special Services.

New York, Feb. 23.-Washington's birthday was observed here by special services of patriotic societies and many clergymen made the anniversary the subject of their sermons.

The society of the Sons of the Revolution of the state of New York had its 13th annual service in the brick Presbyterian church.

At Carnegie hall a patriotic mass meeting was conducted under the auspices of the West Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. Patriotic airs were rendered by the Seventh regiment band main force in the south, but captured and the New York festival chorus of 300 voices, the audience joining in the singing of the national anthem and Booker T. Rome, Feb. 23.—Beautiful spring like weather prevailed here Sunday and all the homes of Americans were bedecked with the stars and stripes. Because of Washington's birthday falling on a Sunday some objections were made to holding receptions Sunday. These objections, however, were smoothed away by making the reception at the United States embassy a purely informal affair, at which tea was served. It was a most enjoyable affair and the 600 Americans present included Dr. Nevin, rector of the Episcopal church; Dr. William Burt, head of the American Methodist missions in Europe; Bishop Budke, of St. Jothe American college; Mgr. CALCIUM SALTS.

Nervous Diseases Can Be Cured By it Says Dr. Jacques Loeb.

Chicago, Feb. 23.-Dr. Jacques Loeb discovered that muscular and nervous diseases, such as St. Vitus dance, paralysis agitans, locomotor ataxia and sleeplessness can be cured by administering calcium salts, that is, such salts as are found in well water and many foods. Announcement of this discovery in scientific research by the former head of the department of physiology at the University of Chicago has just been made. In one of the decennia! publications, just issued by the University of Chicago, Dr. Loeb tells of his experiment on lower forms of life and the conclusions suggested in regard to human beings.

Simply stated, the conclusion is that the presence of calcium salts in the muscles is what prevents their twitching; that practically all nervous diseases are caused by the absence of the calcium, and that, therefore, to restore normal conditions and effect a cure, the remedy is calcium salts.

DR. DUNCAN IS FREED.

Pittsburg, Feb. 23.—"We find the defendant not guilty," was the verdict rendered in the criminal court in the case of the Commonwealth against Dr. Ellis S. Duncan, charged with the felonious shooting of Bruce Head last October at the Wabash camp, near Green-

That the verdict is a popular one was showr by the fact that when the clerk read it the announcement that the defendant had been acquitted was greeted with cheers and a loud clapping of hands. This was quickly suppressed by the court officials. The doctor is happy, but refuses to talk of plans regarding his wife. Should she be divorced, Head will not marry her. Rumor has it that he will soon marry a young woman of Pittsburg.

WANTS THE MONEY.

Germany Requests the Immediate Payment of £5,500.

The Matter Has Significance in View of the Fact That the Venezuelan Ships Taken By Germany Are Still Held.

Washington, Feb. 23.-The German government, through its representative here, Baron Speck von Sternburg, has made a request of Mr. Bowen for the immediate payment of the £5,500 which it was stipulated in the protocols signed on February 13 should be paid within 30 days from that date, as a preliminary to the raising of the blockade against Venezuelan ports and the agreement to send the question of preferential treatment of the blockading nations to The Hague for determination. Mr. Bowen promptly declined to accede to the request, but birthday was not formally observed by informed Baron Sternburg that as provided in the protocol, they money would be paid to the German representative at Caracas 30 days from February 13, which would be on the 15th of March.

The reason that animated the German government in making the request is not disclosed here nor is Mr. Bowen aware of it. The matter, however, has some significance, perhaps, in view of the fact that the shins taken by the Germans during the blockade have not been returned to Venezuela. During the day Mr. Bowen had calls from the French ambassador, M. Jusserand, the Spanish minister. Broadland, So. Dak., Feb. 23rd.—Beadle county has never been so worked up as during the last few weeks. Every one is talking of the wonderful case of G. W. Gray, of Broadland, the particulars of which are best told in the following statement which Mr. Gray has just published:

"I was dying. I had given up all hope. I was prostrate and as helpless as a little babe. I had been ailing with Kidney Trouble for many years and it finally turned to Bright's disease. All medicine had failed and I was disease. All medicine had failed and I was in despair.

"I ordered one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and this first box helped me out of bed. I continued the treatment till now I am a strong, well man. I praise God for the day when I decided to use Dodd's Kidney Pills." Everybody expected that Mr. Gray would die, and his remarkable recovery is regarded as little short of a miracle by all who know how verylow he was. Dodd's Kidney Pills arc certainly a wonderful remedy.

GOOD ENOUGH IF YOU SING.

Sing! Let your heart be happy; Pretty good world of ours! Plenty of joy and contentment, Plenty of sunlight and flowers; Love enough here for the millions; Share it wherever it's found, And sing till a great, gladsome chorus Re-echoes the world around.

May be that fortune has shunned you; Just think it is better gone by. And spring to your feet where you're

And carol a song to the sky.

Sing! There's a sun in the heavens!

Help it to brighten the day;

Sing, and the world will be better, And roses will bloom by the way.

Sing, for you know it's contagious; Others will join in your song, Begetting the love and the laughter That carries this old world along; All nature around you will hum it. While beacons of goodness will swing Out from the gloom of the darkness— It's a good enough world if you sing.

FLOOD-TIDE.

AND NATIONAL PROPERTY OF THE P

By Helen M. Givens.

NORWOOD had tramped over San Francisco, unsuccessfully seeking employment from sunrise to sunset. He had been out of the hospital only a few days, and when he paused before an evil-looking eating-house on the water front, he felt too spent and disheartened to enter. Exactly 20 cents stood between him and starvation. He jingled it mechanically, and watched a dissipated-looking eat making toilet in an angle of the wall. The heaviest fog of the season hung over the bay and fell incessantly in small rain and mist. At last a drunken man, roaring out the refrain of a popular coon-song as he staggered heavily on, roused Norwood, and he ten-cent order. It was high tide, and with the sound of the little waves snapping at the piles the idea of ending his misery entered his mind for the first time. He had made a brave fight against odds; he had worked at anything his hands found to do; but the curriculum of his eastern collège had donc little toward training his eye for material heights, and when Fate had allowed him to make a misstep on some scaffolding his ribs had men ed sooner than his spirit.

The fog-horn still clamored, al though the mist had lifted a little. Norwood reflected that about the middle of the bay, when the wet decks were empty, he could slip over the side and out of existence as easily as though he had never felt that life had a great deal to offer to him. In the meantime he still erayed warmth, and he followed the crowd into the cabin He transferred some of the silver to and found a corner near the door.

A moment later, two women, one olderly, the other young, good-looking and with an air of quiet distinetion, seated themselves opposite. From time to time snatches of their conversation reached the young man. rospect of crossing in the fog-the younger tried to reassure her.

An immense negro, jammed half in, half out, a shattered window, contributed the element of grotesqueness, as he gesticulated frantically, filling the air with alternate prayers and curses.

With death at hand, Norwood eeased to desire it. Springing toward an exit, he remembered the two women and returned. The girl, who was rying to raise the elderly woman to her feet, looked at him appealingly. 'My mother's heart is weak," she said hurriedly. "The shock has brought on an attack-I can't move her."

"Just a moment," cried Norwood. Don't stir from here, and I'll see what ean be done."

When he gained the slippery deck he found order coming out of chaos, through the nerve of the officers and the ealmness of some of the passengers. Boats were lowered, but only to pick up a few progressive spirits who in the first panic had seized lifepreservers and thrown themselves into the water. Lines had been cast from one steamer to another, lashing them together; and men, working like madmen-or heroes-were quickly passing the women and children to safety over the rail.

Norwood ran back. As the giri turned her white face mutely toward him he felt a glow of admiration for her self-control.

"All right," he said, encouragingly. There's no danger. Are you strong enough to help me lift her?"

She nodded, and together they raised the almost unconscious woman. She was no light weight, and Norwood was still weak, but they succeeded in entered the restaurant and gave a half-leading, half-carrying her on deck. The doomed steamer was rapidticeship at the county hospital, his by settling, and the water was running weakened stomach revolted at the into the cabin when they left it. Although occupied with her mother, the girl's eyes more than tified by this badge of respectability, once raved eagerly over the crowd, and, with a quickened beating of his heart, Norwood felt instinctively that she searched for him. The idea cheered him-he felt less friendless; last the gates opened, Norwood found | yet he kept out of sight until they enhimself entering with the crowd. His tered a carriage and were driven

The events of the past few hours had added no brilliancy to Norwood's prospects; nevertheless, as he turned toward Market street, he no longer felt life to be an upprofitable episode disturbing the blessed ealm of nonexistence. He exulted in the mere tact that his will controlled his movements-that he was not a thing for the sport of the waves; and squaring his shoulders to the wind, he thrust his hands deeply into his shabby pockets. With an astonished start he drew them out again. Dangling to one finger by a glittering chain was a little purse of gray suede-the kind women affect. For a moment he looked at it in bewilderment-then memory stung him. He had twice picked it up, once to restore it to its rightful owner-the second time to pocket it himself. In the excitement he had forgotten it. Opened, it revealed the unaccustomed glitter of gold and silver, and at the sight Norvood realized how famished he was. a breast-pocket, replaced the purse,

In the three years that followed, Norwood's success pointed the words of the poet:

"There is a tide in the affairs of men Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.'

In the various turnings of his lane, he made many acquaintances and a few friends, who occasionally drew him, unwillingly enough, out of the routine of business into the social pleasures of his age and kind. So it chanced that one evening, watching his opportunity to say good-night to his hostess and escape from a crowded dance, he looked across the shoulders of the throng and intercepted the level glanee of a pair of brown eyes. Norwood promptly changed his farewell to a petition, and five minutes later he was saying to the owner of the eyes, "Let me take you out of this crush. #### COMMUNING WITH THE DEAD.

A Strong and Universal Tendency of the Living That Has Survived Attempts at Suppression.

The tendency to commune with the dead and to pray for them is strong and universal. It survives whatever systems of whatever erecds men may invent for its suppression. Samuel Johnson is professedly a stanch Protestant, bristling with prejudices, but a delicate moral sense enters the rugged manhood of his nature, says a writer in Donahue's Magazine. Instinetively he seeks to commune with his departed wife after the manner dear to the Catholie heart, but forbidden to the Protestant. He keeps the anniversary of her death and he composes a beautiful prayer, full of Cathfull and a number on California street olic sentiment, for the repose of her soul. Tennyson has the same thought beautifully expressed in his "Morte d' Arthur." He makes this hero say:

"More things are wrought by prayer Than this world dreams of. Wherefore, let thy voice Rise like a fountain for me night and

Trial By Jury.

R. C. Tucker was tried in Judge Hinton's Court, Saturday morning, by a jury on a warrant issued by his wife, charging him with disorderly conduct. Mr. Tucker acted as his own "lawyer," asked for a jury and argued his own case. A jury was empaneled and the evidence heard. I took the jury but three minutes to find a verdict of $50 fine. Judge Hinton, in instructing the jury, said: "Find the defendant guilty. I cannot say what amount to fine him, but I think the limit is too little." The verdict was heard with general approval. (Had Charley Bronston or Col. Breckinridge been present they could certainly have learned a few things from the argument presented?)

It was quite a disappointment to the audience to hear such a poor argument from one who has had so much experience at the "bar."

CHAPTER X.

SEYMOUR THE SLEUTH. No word had been received from Mr. Bernard Seymour since parture from St. Louis, at which time he requested that $500 be forwarded to him at New Orloans. It was a peculiarity of the Bernard Seymour telegrams that they always contained stipulations for fresh funds. Mr. Stevens had a hearty respect for the Seymour massive chest. luck. He overlooked any slight irregularities in methods, and accordingly instructions concerning the search ker.' You knew me last night all pride. "The 'Sam Walker' has carfor the architect and contractor in right." charge of the supposititious Hestor country house.

No answer came from Mr. Seymour. When the staff of reporters arrived be going?" in New Orleans, they learned that at the hotel since the time of the financial transaction. The new arriva's made a vain search for the missing sleuth, and then went briskly to work without him.

When Bernard Seymour arrived in New Orleans, he was, as he expressed it. "much the worse for wear." When he learned that he had caused the arrest of a famous Chicago clergyman, instead of L. Sylvester Vincent, he lost no time in quitting St. Louis. He abandoned his baggage at first train south.

Seymour arrived in New Orleans that the "West End"-the breathing place of the Southern metropolis,would be the most congenial place to begin operations. The "West Ena" sight. is a cluster of hotels, fringing the buthing beaches on the south shore New Orleans. Mr. Seymour found it Mister Bender? Did ye sleep sound?" brilliant with rows of electric lights. A score of orchestras and bands were throng.

"Hello, Seymour." A heavy set man, with his face are we headed for?" marked by a cavernous gria, pushed Mr. Bernard Seymour on the shoulder. "Well, you little ferret, what are you doing in New Orleans?"

"Sir!" "That's what I said-sir! Will you have a drink, sir?"

"Yes, sir. Now I understand you." down here. What are you doing? upon the savory spread with avidity. Who are you doing?"

"None of yeur business." "True, but not to the point. I know what you are doing. You are on the kidnapped millionaire case." "Some one must have told you. The witness refuses to commit himself.

Will you have another drink?" They had several. Under their influence Scymour told Dick Bender his mission, but was too discreet to reveal any information which had been received from New York. He invited Mr. Bender to take dinner with him, and that gentleman was teo polite to refuse. When Mr. Seymour awoke the following afternoon he was in a narrow bunk, which seemed to rise and fall as to the heave of a ship. He ascribed this to natural causes and went to sleep. When he again awoke it was dark. For a moment he lay quiet. To his cars came the splash of waters and the groaning and muttering of a ship. By the smoky light of a lantern he found his elothes scattered on the floor. He put them on as fast as possible, but the operation was delayed by the swaying of the room. The heavy breathing of a sleeper in an opposite bunk seemed to beat time to the motion of the ship. Seymour opened the curtains and peered in. It was Mr. Dick Ben-ip, and prepare to die like a man!" "Forget it!" said Mr. Bender, and he again closed his eyes. But Seymour was persistent, and finally suceceded in arousing the drowsy Bender. While he was dressing, the contractors in an' 'round New Ordoor opened and a broad-shouldered sailor stepped into the apartment. Seymour looked for a weapon, but there was none in sight. The man surveyed them ealmly for a moment

"I thought I would come and wake you-all up. When you gets on your togs, come on deek. You must be hungry by this time."

Seymour looked at him doubt-

"Who are you?" he asked. "First mate," said the man.

"Well, what do you think of this?" said Seymour as he sat down on the edge of the bunk to collect his thoughts. "Do you know anything about it, Bender?"

"Not a thing," said that gentleman. "I remember meeting some sailor men somewhere. That's all."

They stumbled through a passageway and up a narrow flight of stairs. A draught of fresh night air struck the Planters' Hotel, and took the their faces and was delightfully cool and refreshing. "From early childhood I have longed to go to Havana," said Mr. Seymour. "Why I should select this special time is not readily apparent, but it is well. Cheer up, Bender! Once again an aqueous toast to Capt. Parker and his gallant crew."

Having done ample justice to the food before them, the voyagers followed Capt. Parker to the deck of the vessel. The "Sam Walker" was a large, three-masted schooner. They found seats on the after deck. A big Swede stood at the wheel, and lazily revolved it as the fresh breeze came in irregular gusts from the southwest. The air was fragrant with the odor of newly-sawed lumber, and A pleasant gale is on the se-a. And here we rumte de te tum, that the deeks between the masts were piled high with timber.

"Hev a seegar," said Capt. Parker, passing a box to Mr. Seymour. "I kin afford to be generous, scein' as how you bought 'cm. You gave me twenty dollars and told me to buy the best thar was; and I reekon you'll find them all right."

"You seem to be in the lumber trade," said Seymour, as, he took a cigar and passed the box to Dick Render.

"Yes, I haul a right smart of lumber an' stuff in the course of a year," said Capt. Parker. Like all New England Yankees who live in southern states, his dialect was a mixture of northern and southern idioms. "You must know some contractors," said Seymour. Though his field he said in a hoarse whisper. "Wake of detective endeavor was limited to the area of a "lumber hooker," on the broad expanse of the Gulf of Mexico, the newspaper instinct was strong within him.

"Hestor?" said Capt. Parker reflectively. "Hestor? Than ain't no contractor by that name that I ever heern on."

"He is not a contractor," explained Seymour. "He is a New York millionaire, whom I know very well. He built a house on some island in the West Indies a year or so ago." "What sort of a man wuz he?"

asked Capt. Parker. "What did he "He did newspaper work for fun," said Scymour. "He had lots of money, and went all over the world looking for good stories." "Did he own a yacht-a steam vacht?" "Yes," answered Seymour, leaning "Say, Bill!"

The first mate was talking with the Swede wheelsman. He stepped he said, extending a large, freekled over and joined the group when Capt. Parker called him.

"What wuz ther name of that dude who owned the 'Shark'?" he asked. "You know who I mean. The one that Col. McIntyre built that air house for."

Seymour dropped his eigar. The temptation to yell almost overwhelmed him.

"Let's see; what in thunder was his name?" said the big sailor, removing his cap and running his hand had set out to make their "return through a mass of red hair. "I surely am up against it good or the best fellow in the world, and | "He ased ter be," safe Capt. Farker. "He has moved ter Havana, "You and Bill hove in sight about This here load of lumber is fer him.

> "Is he in Havana now?" "Suppose so," said the captain. "Guess he'll be daown ter the dock big burry erbaout this 'ere bunch of blazes erbaout it.'

Seymour changed the subject. He was so clated that he felt like elimbing the shrouds, and yelling like a Comanche Indian. The one thing which worried him was whether or not he had told Bender anything about Hestor during the preceding evening. The look of pained surprise on Bender's face, when his ankle felt the impact of Seymour's foot, was evidence that he knew nothing of Hestor or his complicity in the millionaire mystery.

Seymour vented his joy and eoncealed his triumph in song. The temptation to celebrate in drink was strong, but his repentance was sincere and his determination to reform was carnest. So he sang. As a vocalist, Mr. Seymour was handicapped by the circumstance that he knew neither the words nor the tune to any song. What he lacked in technique was recompensed in energy. His first effort, as expressed in words, was about as follows:

"Yo ho, my lads, the wind blows free; Ra le dada, te duni, dum,

And 'ere we part from England's shore A song we'll sing to home da rumty dight Then here's to the sailor, Here's to his heart so true (sing there,

Who will think of him upon the waters blu-u-u-ne,

Salling, sailing, der rumty, dum de dain, And many a stormy wind shall 'Ere Jack comes ho-o-ome a-a-a-again!"

The negro cook stood in the companion-way and joined in the chorus with a deep baritone, which did much to neutralize the rather harsh tenor of the eager Seymour, and the uncertain bass of Mr. Dick Bender, Capt. Parker did not sing, but was liberal in his applause.

The Dove and the Cat.

Maj. Shattuck of the signal corps tells an amusing story of an old-time 'religious revival" inceting at a negro church near Savannah. In order that the revival spirit might be quickened it was arranged that the preacher should give a signal when he thought the excitement was highest, and from the attie, through a hole cut in the cciling directly over the pulpit, the sexton was to shove down a pure white dove, whose flight around the church and over the heads of the audience was expected to have an inspiring effect, and as far as emotion al excitement was concerned, to cap the climax. All went well at the start; the church was packed; the preacher's text was "In the form of a dove," and as he piled up his eloquent periods the excitement was strong. Then the opportune moment arrived-the signal was given-and the packed audience was seared out of its wits on looking up to the ceiling and beholding a eat, with a clothes line around its middle, yowling and spitting, being slowly lowered over the preacher's head. The preacher called out to the sexton in the attie: "Whar's de dove?" And the sexton's voice came down through the opening so you could hear it a block: "Inside de cat!" - Chicago Daily News.

How Jacques Tissot Painted. An interesting story is told of Jacques Tissot, the great French painter, lately deceased. While in England he painted a beautiful religious picture and, meeting a countrywoman, asked her opinion of his work. "It's a chef d'oeuvre," she replied, giving a remarkably just and detailed appreciation of the various merits of the painting. "Are you satisfied?" asked a friend. Tissot answered in the negative. He entirely repainted his picture, working night and day.

When finished he sent for his fair eritic, who pronounced it "admirable," and remained silently admiring it with smiling criticism. "Are you satisfied?" asked the friend again when the lady departed. "No," answered the artist, and set to work for the third time. When the l'arisienne saw the new painting she gazed at it for some moments with evident emotion, and then without a word sank softly to her knees and began to pray. "Are you satisfied now?" whispered the friend And Tissot said, "Yes."

Couldn't Get Hang of It.

Bridget and Norah Murphy, fresh from the mosquitoes of Ellis Island, part of the city. Upon arriving at until she turned the knob over to Seymour gave Bender a violent kick "Nonie." Then the latter yanked and twisted without success, until both Bridget.

Sends the Following Grand Testimonial to the Merits of Cuticura Remedies in the Treatment of Humours of the Blood, Skin and Scalp,

"I wish to give my testimony to the efficiency of the Cuticura Remedies in what seems to me two somewhat remarkable eases. I had a number of skin tumours-small ones - on my arms which had never given me serious trouble; but about two years ago one came on my throat. At first it was only about as large as a pinhead, but, as it was in a position where my collar, if not st right, would irritate it, it soon became very sensitive and began to grow rapidly. Last spring it was as large, if not larger, than a bean. A little unusual irritation of my collar started it to swelling, and in a day or two it was as large as half an orange. I was very much alarmed, and was at a loss to determine whether it was a carbuncle or a malignant tumor.

"My friends tried to persuade me

In six weeks' time the lumps had entirely disappeared, and have never

"I have great faith in the Cuticura Remedies, and I believe they might be as efficacious in similar cases with other people, and thus save much suffering, and perhaps life. I have derived so much benefit from the use of them myself that I am constantly advising others to use them. Recently I recommended them to an office boy for his father, who was disabled with salt rheum. The man's fect were swollen to an enormous size, and he had not worked for six weeks. Two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment worked a perfect cure. OLD BIBLE MANUSCRIPT.

The Most Ancient Scriptural Writing in Existence Discovered in Syria.

What is claimed to be the oldest Biblical manuscript extant was lately discovered in Syria, and is now in safe keeping at Cairo. It comprises the Pentatench, written in Samaritan characters on gazelle parchment, and its date is the year 116 of the Moslem era, which is equivalent to the year 735 A. D. It is declared to be far older than any of the Hebrew Biblical manuscripts in the libraries of Europe or America. It is stated that the oldest manuscript in the British museum is of the year 1339 A. D., and this has hitherto been supposed to be the oldest in the world. The newly discovered manuscript contains immediatey after the decalogue a passage of about 15 lines that does not exist in the authorized version. It is claimed that this passage is likely to clear up several long-disputed points.

"I have been asked many times recently if in my opinion women are hecoming addicted to the use of liquor. I have been shown statements that they carry it so far as to get intoxicated. And, further, that they are deteriorating in the social line generally. My acquaintance it extensive and I have a large correspondence, but I have never known a drinking woman. I do not mean that I have never seen one, for I have seen them on the streets, but I did not know them, and I have never known a woman gambler and have never known one who smoked eigarettes. If there are such, they are not among my acquaintances."

A prehistoric graveyard has been discovered on the farm of Solomon Hedrick, in Henry county, Ill. A large number of human skeletons have been found, and all are eight feet or more in height. A mound 35 feet high had been built of gravel or sand. A roadway 20 feet in width led up to the top of the mound.

When about 12 feet of the apex of the mound had been removed the skeletons were found. The bones are large in size and the teeth are highly polished and well preserved. Ivory heads, a shield made of bone and other articles were found in the graves. Hedrick will dig up the entire field

Here Is One That Must Be Made Good.

We bought several thousand dollars' worth of Cloth ng the latter part of December. We have sold some of the Clothing, but not enough to give us room for our Spring stock; besides that, we can't afford to keep our money tied up in it, and the goods getting old, which is against our rule of business to carry goods over from one season to another; so we have decided to lose a few hundred dollars by selling Clothing for the next thirty days below cost. We are sure there will not be many suits left in our house after this thirtydays' sale. All we want is to sell the first few suits for the community to see the quality of them and prices paid for them. We will mention a few of the prices below. Come and be convinced that we back our advertisements with our goods.

50 All-Wool Suits, nice designs, formerly sold at $4 98, now $2.98.

12 Men's Square-Cut Suits, dark gray, small check, sold for $6, now $3.98. 25 Men's Suits, all-wool, custom tailored, dark green, invisible plaid, sold at $7.50, now $4.50. 25 Men's heavy-weight, all-wool Suits well worth 8.00, now 4.98. 15 Men's Square Cut Suits, real fine cloth, sold for 12.50, now 7.50. 100 Men's Serge Suits, dark blue, round and square cut, made with best linings and trimmings, fit as well as order-made clothing, sold at 12.50 and 15, now 6.50 and 7.50. 12 Men's Overcoats that we sold at 4.98, now 3.75.

Overcoats that we sold at 6.00, now Overcoats that sold at 10, now 7.

We also ent the prices on all Boys' Clothing.

Men's Jeans Pants, worth 1, now 65c. Men's Jeans Pants, worth 1.25 now 75c All-wool Jeans Pants, best made, sold at 1.50, now 1. 50 pairs all-wool Pants, guaranteed to hold their color, sold 1.75, now 1. Stylish Pants, sold at 1.98, now 1.48. 50 pairs Cassimere Pants, good weight sold for 2.50, now 1.75.

40 pairs Worsted Pants, sold at 3.00, now 1.98. 2.00 Corduroy Pants, now 1.25.

2.50 Corduroy Pants, at 1.48. 3.50 Corduroy Pants, at 2.48. We have a big variety of Knee Suits. heavy-weights. We will sell 2.00 Knee Suits, 1.48.

3.00 Knee Suits, 1.98. 4.50 Knee Suits, 2.98.

In Addition to our Clothing, we will cut the prices on Hats. We have eutirely too many. Come soon if you want to get bargains, before the sizes are gone.
